On the Origin of Species - Charles Darwin, 1859

Abstract. - Darwin's Theory of Evolution is the widely held notion that all life is related and has descended from a common ancestor: the birds and the bananas, the fishes and the flowers -- all related. Darwin's general theory presumes the development of life from non-life and stresses a purely naturalistic (undirected) "descent with modification".

Any reading of Darwin is certainly influenced by our own theory of gene-culture coevolution, which we sketch in the second part of the essay. Darwin's early M and N notebooks on Man, Mind and Materialism clarify the importance the human species played in his thinking about evolution (Gruber and Barrett 1974).
